

Head outdoors with 10 of the best fish and chip spots in Auckland

25 FEB 2022

It's a simple pleasure at the core of our Kiwi being: fish and chips, enjoyed on the beach (or at least among the great outdoors). Serving up some seriously gratifying situations, we've matched many of Auckland's best purveyors with the most scenic spots around town to devour them.

Fishsmith eaten at Sentinel Beach

Herne Bay's takeaway joint is the 'supper' stop you want in on. Whether it's the classic order or the tasty tacos with fresh slaw, cart it down to nearby Sentinel Beach for a seaside picnic.

200 Jervois Road, Herne Bay

Market Galley at the Auckland Fish Market eaten at the Tidal Steps

Market Galley heralds both sophisticated seafood dishes, such as grilled Big Glory Bay salmon and poached prawns alongside family favourites like beer-battered snapper and salt and pepper squid. Order up and stroll down to the Tidal Steps to take in Auckland's seaside skyline.

22 Jellicoe Street, Freemans Bay

Catch a Fish eaten at Judges Bay, Parnell

Get a hit of battered goodness (mind you, we hear the mushy peas are excellent too) at this Gladstone Road pitstop before devouring either in the romance of the Rose Gardens, or the picturesque Judges Bay.

6/64 Gladstone Road, Parnell

Tipene's Takeaways eaten at Fowlds Park

There's something for everyone at hidden city fringe gem Tipene's Takeaways, with a bounty of the freshest catch available, burger buns made daily by a local bakery and in-house made sauces. We would recommend trying the mixed portion of chips featuring the best of both worlds with both potato and kūmara and (if you're feeling particularly gluttonous), the deep-fried Oreos with cinnamon sugar will really hit the spot.

648b New North Road, Morningside

The Mariner eaten up Mount Eden

This fish and chippery's reputation is known far and wide. Serving the adored combination in a wholesome and reliable manner (by a team who cares), your best bet is to earn your dinner by hiking up the nearby Maungawhau summit and devouring it there. The view is second to none.
